Proposal

We want $400,000 for a 15% stake. We are gamers that wanted a better VR game experience, we wanted to get rid of the controllers and instead have something more comfortable, because other controllers are very uncomfortable, and we want to make it easier to play through the game.

The product

Are your virtual headset controllers too uncomfortable for you? Try this introducing, Rgloves. These controllers are gloves! And they are super comfortable and incredibly great fun to use. The secret is the rig tracking system that makes your movements super accurate in game! Hands too big? Or small? Not a problem! The gloves stretch out to match your hand size. More colors coming soon!

Marketing

We are planning to market this product online. It is a third party controller so retail won't really work. We exclusively sell it on our website but have plans to sell it across Amazon, and other online stores. We will sponsor content creators to advertise our product and to set up a significant presence at CES.. So far we have sold only 8,562 units so far with each priced at $100.99 with a $90 manufacturing and labour cost. Our net worth is around $94k.

Burdens

We have about 2 different loans to pay back, around $70k each, and we need that current money to invest more. By giving us this money we can pay off our loans and immediately start investing, please consider taking this offer.

Business structure

We are the owners of the company, we have partnered with a factory in the state of California to create our products, the factory workers are minimum wage workers around $16 an hour, health insurance, life insurance, they even have potential to get paid sick days.

Thanks
